Festive Waste

Whilst Christmas 'tis the season to be jolly, we should also be considering our environmental impact during the most wonderful time of the year.

A large proportion of wrapping paper cannot be recycled, as much contains plastic (glitter or laminates).

Eight million Christmas trees (around 12,000 tonnes) become waste after the festivities.

Biffa suggests that collectively, people spend more than 100 million bags of rubbish to landfills each Christmas.

The card material used at Christmas would stretch between London and Lapland over 100 times.

The UK typically produces and discards an extra 30% of waste during the festive period compared to the rest of the year.

Each year, the UK spends £700 million on unwanted Christmas gifts.

The UK throws away approximately 500 tonnes of Christmas lights each year.

Consumers throw away approximately £42 million of unwanted presents each year, most end up in landfill.

The UK discards 54 million platefuls of food over the festive period.
